1) Subject: "Smart Metering", Courier-Journal, February 25, 2006

You people must be crazy to consider "smart metering". Demand Metering did not work; so now LG&E and the PSC wants to change the name and force it upon us. This is nothing more than another way for LG&E to increase its profit margins at our expense. At current energy prices, we all conserve where we can.

2) Subject: Natural Gas Costs

Why is LG&E charging us $12.75/MCF for natural gas when the wholesale price has been below $7.00/MCF for sometime now? Also, what happened to the natural gas that used to be purchased during the summer and stored in their limestone caverns for the winter? This use to be LG&E's way of stabilizing the natural gas costs for their customers. I guess they used it to run their gas turbines last summer. I haven't heard anything about the storage caverns for awhile.

Thank you,
